WALES

PLASTIC BAN

Wales is going to ban lots of single-use plastics from 2021. Single-use plastics are items that are designed to be used once and then thrown away. The ban includes straws, cotton buds, drinks stirrers, plastic plates, cutlery and balloon sticks. England is already banning some items from next month, but Wales has a much longer list of plastics that it is going to outlaw. Hannah Blythyn, the minister in charge of recycling, said these plastics are “hard to recycle and often found on beaches and seas around our coast, blighting our beautiful country.”

ICELAND PROPOSAL

A nurse who planned to propose to his girlfriend in Iceland had to change his plans after the flights were cancelled. Robert Ormsby wanted to propose to his girlfriend Patsy on holiday, but the flights were cancelled because of the coronavirus. So, instead of proposing in the country of Iceland, he did it in an Iceland supermarket instead! Robert got down on one knee in the middle of the shop to ask Patsy to marry him. Patsy was “laughing hysterically”, but said yes! News of the quirky proposal went viral (spread quickly over the internet). The couple say they are glad to put smiles on faces.

NORTHUMBERLAND

DEADLY GARDEN WINS

The Poison Garden in Alnwick has been named the Garden of the Year by BBC Countryfile Magazine. More than 100 dangerous plants grow in the unusual garden. Visitors aren't allowed to touch, smell or taste (we should hope not) any of the plants. You are only allowed to visit with a guide. It has been called “the deadliest garden in England”.

SPAIN

TOLD OFF BY A DRONE!

Like us, the people of Spain have been told to stay at home to stop the coronavirus spreading. The rules mean that no-one is allowed out, unless it is absolutely essential. Unfortunately, some people haven't been following the rules, so police have had to step in – without having to step outside. Drones with speakers are being flown over public spaces, where they find and yell at people gathering outside! The drones hang around until everyone buzzes off.

SAUDI ARABIA

MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALLS...

The largest mirrored building in the world has been built in Saudi Arabia. The Maraya Concert Hall is 26 metres tall and can seat 500 people. In total, the building is covered by 9,740 square metres of mirrors! As you can see, it creates a stunning reflection of the mountains and sands that surround it.

NEW ZEALAND

TAXIS FOR THE BIRDS

A taxi driver has a new night job: rescuing chicks that crash-land onto roads! The Hutton's shearwater is a rare seabird that only breeds in two places in New Zealand. It is also the only seabird in the world that nests and raises its young in the mountains. The trouble is, on foggy nights, the grey puffballs mistake glimmering roads for the sea, and fly straight into them. They're then unable to move, and might get hit by a car or eaten by a cat. Fortunately, Toni Painting and her volunteers are there to help! Toni drives around every night, scooping up the birds she finds at the side of the road, before dropping them off at a rescue centre.

BIG NEWS

KEEPING OUR COUSINS SAFE

TOURISTS have been banned from seeing gorillas in the African country of Gabon, in case they pass on the coronavirus to them.

Gorillas are one of our closest relatives and can suffer from the same diseases as humans. There are concerns that the coronavirus could spread to gorillas and the other great apes.

To protect the gorillas, Gabon has banned people from visiting its parks. It has reason to be cautious. In 1995, a virus called Ebola spread from humans to gorillas and killed 90% of the gorillas in one area of the country.

An expert from the park said: “Viruses that affect humans are easily transmitted [given] to great apes because the two species are so closely related.”

It’s a difficult decision because the country relies on money from tourists to pay for the rangers and other park staff that protect the gorillas. There are also fears that with fewer people around, poaching may increase.

The great apes

There are five kinds of great apes: gorillas, chimpanzees, bonobo, orangutans and humans.

CRAZY BUT TRUE

NOT EVERYTHING'S CLOSED IF YOU'RE A PENGUIN!

IT seems like all the fun places you can go to are closed for now. But one aquarium in America remains open... to the animals that live there!

The Shedd Aquarium, in the American city of Chicago, is staying closed like lots of places to slow down the spread of the coronavirus.

Instead, it has been letting its penguins out to explore! They have been waddling around parts of the aquarium they would never normally see. The curious birds have been out on field trips meeting dolphins. They have visited exotic areas like Amazon Rising. They have even been peeking their beaks around the reception area!

The penguins aren't the only ones having time out and about. The most recent animal to have a wander is Tyson the porcupine. He enjoyed his lunch while visiting the Polar Play Zone and watched the penguins having a swim.

The California Science Center has already joined in, sharing pictures of their rats, who got to explore the kelp forest exhibition while it's closed to visitors.

We wonder if we'll get to see more animal fun online from other zoos, aquariums and animals centres?
